

TURF & SPORTS VENUE SOFTWARE

Invoicing software built for how a turf actually books

A cricket turf or badminton court doesn't book by the day — it books by the hour, and two overlapping bookings on the same court is the one mistake that costs you a customer. Invoice2Track checks every new slot against what's already on the calendar before it confirms, then bills hours times rate the moment play is done.

How it works

- 1 Pick the court and slot
Choose which court and which hour (or consecutive hours) a customer wants — a one-hour game never needs a full-day booking.
- 2 System checks for overlap
The requested slot is checked against every existing booking for that court and date before it's confirmed — a genuine double-booking simply can't be created.
- 3 Confirm the booking
Once clear, the slot is locked in and shows on the calendar immediately, visible to anyone checking availability next.
- 4 Bill by hours played
When play's done, the invoice is hours times the court's rate — straightforward, and ready the moment the customer's ready to pay.
- 5 Track what's billed
The month view shows every booking color-coded by billing status, so nothing slips through unbilled at the end of a busy week.

Key capabilities

• Hourly slot booking Book a single hour or several consecutive ones, against a specific court and date — no full-day booking required for a one-hour game.	• Automatic overlap checking A new booking is checked against every existing one for that court and date before it's confirmed — double-booking a slot simply isn't possible.
• Color-coded calendar A month view shows every booking at a glance, color-coded by whether it's already been billed.	• Hours × rate billing Invoices generate straight from hours booked against the court's rate — no manual calculation at checkout.
• Multiple courts, one calendar Run several courts or turfs from a single shared calendar, each with its own independent bookings and rates.	• Advance & balance tracking Take a booking deposit up front and settle the balance after play, with both amounts tracked against the same booking.
